Dawson, Delivered February 22, 1887, at the Fifth Annual Re-Union of the Association of the Maryland Line, at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, MD In the writings of Count Montholon there is the following passage: On great occasions, it is almost always women who have given the strongest proofs of virtue and devotion. The reason is that, with men, good and bad qualities are, in general, the result of calculation, whilst in women they are impulses springing from the heart. Macaulay, in one of his essays, speaks of that perfect disinterestedness and self-devotion of which man seems incapable, but which is sometimes found in woman. This virtue, this perfect disinterestedness and self-devotion, was manifested on every side, and on all occasions, by Southern women during the Confederate war. Their constancy and fidelity, their tenderness and courage, their unflinching cheerfulness and patience, have no parallel in the history of human achievement and human suffering. Think for a moment of the peculiar circumstances. The soldiers on the...
