Excerpt: . proportion than the impaired lives, his answer will quite probably be No. You may thus obtain unimpeachable evidence that various companies have not suffered appreciably by the lapse of good risks in undue proportion. A life company which retains its popularity does not, in fact, usually suffer on the score of vitality by reason of discontinuances It may have many lapses in the first year of insurance, but the medical examination is in such cases so recent that the risks remaining during the second year are on the whole unusually good, and the like holds true until the fourth or fifth year. After the third year the lapses in a popular life company are not so numerous, and those which do occur may be traced to one of three causes. The first cause is a change of circumstances, by which the policyholder finds...
